Call for Papers

Stamford Journal of English (ISSN 18189512) is a refereed academic journal, now in its fifth year, published by the Department of English at the Stamford University Bangladesh.

Published annually Stamford Journal of English embraces not only the full range of subject coverage within the field of English Studies ( on a range of topics from Literature to English Language Teaching), but also the increasingly wide range of approaches and perspectives that can be brought to bear upon the discipline. We welcome, therefore, both traditional and modern approaches to the field, from close critical readings of literary texts, to interdisciplinary approaches or cross-subject analyses.

We invite academic papers (3000-5000 words) on research-related issues and review-essays of recent publications. All typed script, including correspondence, should be double-spaced, MLA referenced, sent via e-mail, one disk saved as a Word document copy and accompanied by two hard copies of the text.

The submission deadline for Volume 5 is 10th July 2009. Send all hard copies via land mail to Professor Syed Anwarul Huq, Editor, Stamford Journal of English; and one e-mail (eng-journal@stamforduniversity.edu.bd) copy to Ms. Mehjabeen Rahman, Associate Editor, Stamford Journal of English.

Should you submit your paper later than the priority deadline, please do not hesitate to contact the Editor with an abstract or proposal.

A full style sheet of submission guidelines is available by email and should be requested before submitting final copy.
